

WHO AM I?

A workshop on Macro and Micro identity

"Am I living out of who I am?"

It's a question that millions of people around the world find themselves asking on a daily basis. And for good reason! What we hold as our identity drives everything we do. "I want to be a hard worker, not a sloth. I want to be a good parent and a good friend."

Our identities play into every decision we make, every thought we have, and every goal we strive to achieve.

But unfortunately, our identities can fall to corruption. We may be ashamed of who we are, or we may take too much pride in what we can do, becoming arrogant. We may miss who God has made us because we are trying to be something we're not.

Built around the idea that our identities are rooted in Christ, our "Who Am I?" training addresses the harder questions of our being and creates clarity around who we are each designed and intended to be.

This fun and interactive workshop will get you reflecting on who Christ has made you, how God has designed you, and what you can do as a result. Participants will gain the freedom to be exactly who you are: unique in design and secure in an unchanging God.

Our Macro identity is who God says we are. Only God has the right to define who we are!

Our Micro identity includes our strengths, weaknesses, successes, failures, and skills.
